Very few people know of the Married Women & Children (Maintenance) Act 1950 (the Act). For wives and children (legitimate or otherwise) in the lower income bracket especially, the procedures in the Act may prove to be a cheaper, speedier and more efficient way to get recalcitrant husbands to pay them maintenance.

This talk will cover the substantive and procedural laws in relation to the Act that will provide practitioners with another option to gain justice for those in dire economic straits because their husbands/fathers have not paid maintenance.

About the speaker Honey Tan Lay Ean has an LLB from the University of Buckingham, and an LLM from Warwick University. She is the Co-Chairperson of the Family Law Committee of the Malaysian Bar.

Honey's main area of practice is in the field of high conflict matrimonial law. She is also engaged in public interest litigation, primarily in the areas of equality and non-discrimination.

In Malaysia, she regularly trains pupils and young lawyers in the areas of Feminisms, Feminist Perspectives of the Law, and strategic interest litigation.

Honey is recognized by the United Nations Entity on the Empowerment of Women and Gender Equality (UN Women) as an expert in the Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW).
